Tehran, IRNA – An Israeli media has confirmed that a cyber group of Iran has penetrated the regime's radars and sent hundreds of thousands of threatening messages to Israelis. The Jerusalem Post revealed early on Sunday that over 500,000 threatening messages have been sent to the Israelis assuring Zionist leaders that they will regret their insane adventurism. The Islamic Revolution Guards Corps (IRGC) released a statement late on Saturday announcing the firing of dozens of drones and missiles toward the positions of the Zionist regime in the occupied Palestinian territories. The firing took place in response to the Israeli attack against Iran's consulate in Damascus, Syria, a few days ago.

and promoting friendship and cooperation with neighboring countries.» Calling resistance «key to reviving peace and security in the region and countering any form of occupation and terrorism», he said, «Iran attributes the root cause of the crisis in the region to the genocidal and violent policies of the Zionist regime.» President Raisi went on to say that «any new adventure against Iran's interests will be met with a firm and regrettable response», and added, «Should the Zionist regime or its supporters display reckless behavior, they will face an even more resolute reaction.» He also advised the backers of the occupying regime «to appreciate this responsible and proportionate action by the Islamic Republic of Iran and refrain from supporting the aggressive Zionist regime blindly.» «We underscore that Iran's robust defense against external hostilities is a result of the unity and solidarity of our great and beloved nation, as well as the brave efforts of the IRGC and the Army.»

of the military bases of the occupying, anti-security, and anti-stability regime in its drone and missile operation," he noted. «The Islamic Republic of Iran considers regional peace and stability essential for its national security and spares no efforts to restore and maintain peace and stability. Iran's strength lies in its commitment to security and its dedication to defending the interests of countries and nations in the region. attention of the international community to the deadly dangers resulting from the inaction of the United Nations Security Council against the continuous violations committed by the Zionist regime," he wrote. «But unfortunately», Raisi hastened to add, «the Security Council, under the influence of the United States and some other supporters of the Zionist regime, has been prevented from fulfilling its duties.» «In the first step, the Islamic Republic of Iran tactfully and intelligently targeted some

Tehran, IRNA – Iran's President Ebrahim Raisi says the warriors of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps (IRGC) taught the Zionist regime «an unforgettable lesson» with their drone and missile operation. «Last night, your zealous and courageous children in the IRGC, with the cooperation and coordination of all the defense and political sectors of the country, turned a new page in the history of Iran's authority and taught a lesson to the Zionist enemy," Raisi said in a statement on Sunday. He said the operation was within the framework of Iran's right for "legitimate self-defense" in response to the aggressive actions of the Zionist regime against the objectives and interests of the Islamic Republic of Iran, especially the attack on the Iranian consulate in Syria, which led to the martyrdom of a number of IRGC warriors. «During the last six months and especially the last ten days, the Islamic Republic of Iran has used all the available regional and international tools and facilities to draw the

Russia urges Iran, Israeli regime to practice self-restraint

Moscow, IRNA – The Russian Foreign Ministry has issued a statement following Iran's retaliatory attack on the Israeli-occupied territories, calling on all sides to practice self-restraint in a bid to prevent further escalation in the region. According to the Sunday statement of the Russian Foreign Ministry, Moscow condemns the UN Security Council's inaction in slamming the Zionist regime's airstrike on Iran's consulate in Damascus, Syria. It emphasized: We express our utmost concern about another dangerous escalation in the region. The unresolved nature of multiple crises in the Middle East, especially in the Palestinian-Israeli conflict, often accompanied by irresponsible provocative actions, will lead to increased tension. The statement reads: We hope the regional states resolve the existing challenges through political and diplomatic means. We believe it is vital for constructive international players to get involved in this issue.

Mission: Iran committed to UN Charter principles

Tehran, IRNA - Iran is committed to the purposes and principles enshrined in the UN Charter and International law, Iran's Permanent Mission to the United Nations Office at Geneva (UNOG) said in an X message. «In exercising its inherent right of #SelfDefense under Article 51 of the #UNCharter, and in response to the Israeli regime recurring military aggressions, particularly its armed attack on 1st April 2024 against Iranian diplomatic premises, in defiance of Article 2 (4) of the #UNCharter and in flagrant violation of Intl Law, and subsequent to the failure of the #UNSC in taking measures necessary to condemn and hold the aggressor accountable, #Iran carried out a series of military strikes on Israeli military objectives,» Iran's Permanent UNOG Mission wrote on its official X account on Sunday. «As a responsible Member of the @UN, Iran is committed to the purposes and principles enshrined in the #UNCharter and Intl law, and reiterates its consistent position that it does not seek escalation or conflict in the region,» it added. «While warning against any further military provocations, Iran reaffirms its unwavering determination to defend its people, national security, sovereignty, and territorial integrity against any threat or act of aggression. Iran will not hesitate to exercise its inherent right of #SelfDefense when required under Intl Law,» it noted.

Hamas calls Iran's retaliatory attack against Zionist regime its 'natural right'

Tehran, IRNA – The Palestinian resistance movement Hamas says Iran's strikes against Israel were an "appropriate" response to the latter's attack on Tehran's embassy complex in Damascus. «We in the Islamic Resistance Movement (Hamas) believe that the military operation of the Islamic Republic of Iran against the occupied Zionist entity is a natural right and an appropriate response to the crime of targeting the Iranian consulate.

Seven key points on Iran's attack on Israeli regime hit predetermined military targets and that the defense systems of the US and the UK failed. The scale, precision, and strategic planning of the operation caught the Zionists off guard with shock and surprise. Fifth, the punitive operation from Iran to the occupied territories was carried out encompassing two vast geographical areas in both regions (the launching points and the destinations), clearly demonstrating Iran's full readiness for any circumstances. Sixth, the publication of the early announcement by the IRGC concerning the commencement of the hybrid operation against Israel, hours before the reaching of the missiles and drones to the occupied territories, indicates the level of Iran's preparedness, self-confidence, and assurance of the successful punishment of the regime as well as the Islamic country's internal consolidation. Seventh, the usage of hundreds of missiles and drones in the recent as well as the intensiveness of the punitive operation will likely make the authorities of the Zionist regime realize that any reaction or response to Tehran can pave the ground for even more devastating attacks by Iran against Israel. Initial evidence and reports from Western media outlets on the lack of support by US President Joe Biden for the Zionist regime in the event of its aggressive reaction against Iran, if true, indicate an understanding of this matter by the main supporter of the Zionist regime.

hands to gain any achievement. The third point is that the Islamic Republic's attack on Israeli positions is the second strategic assault on the regime following the Palestinian Al-Aqsa Storm Operation on October 7. The Al-Aqsa Storm Operation increased the popularity of Palestinian resistance groups. The military action to show the Islamic Republic's fulfillment of its promise will also significantly help increase popular support for Iran in the region. That comes in addition to the fact that both the Al-Aqsa Storm Operation and the Iranian military action eliminated the fake grandeur and prestige of the Zionist regime. Fourth, the IRGC operation was carried out as world media outlets earlier reported the imminent occurrence of the attack. The maximum readiness by the Zionist regime and the political, diplomatic, intelligence, and military supports by the US and other allies of the regime had shaped the speculation that Iran's military operation would be defused by the defense systems of the regime and its allies. But, despite the Zionists' expectation to be able to counter Iran's weapons, numerous images prove that Iranian drones and missiles successfully

Tehran, IRNA – Iran launched its retaliatory attack on Israeli targets late on Saturday in response to the regime's strike on the Iranian consulate in Syria earlier in April. Now, there are seven points regarding the Iranian military action to punish the regime, which highlight different dimensions of the major operation. First and foremost, the Iranian attack was the first direct confrontation between the Islamic Republic and the fake Zionist regime. This is very significant in terms of historical issues. Effective attacks deep inside the occupied territories has been an unfulfilled dream of Islamic countries since 1967, which have now come true thanks to efforts by the cradle of resistance in the region. For the first time ever, Iranian aircraft attacked enemies of Al-Aqsa Mosque in the skies over this holy site. The second point is that the Iranian military action, which was in response to the Israeli aggression on the country's diplomatic premises in Damascus, displayed the Islamic Republic's fulfillment of its promise to punish the aggressor. The Iranian attack took place at a time when Israeli prime minister Benjamin Netanyahu, through striking the Iranian diplomatic mission, was trying to escape the pressure caused by the regime's heavy defeat in Gaza and attract the attention of fragmented public Zionist opinion to sham victories. But the firm punishment of the Zionist regime left Netanyahu's far-right cabinet with empty

Chief of staff says Iran plans no more actions against Israel

Supreme Leader said this punishment must be done Earlier on Sunday, the IRGC issued the stern warning in a second statement it released following drone and missile attacks on military sites in the Israeli-occupied territories in retaliation for the regime's strike on the Iranian consulate in Syria on April 1. It warned the US against supporting and participating in any action that harms Iranian interests, promising a reciprocal and proportional response to American and Israeli threats originating from any country.

been concluded. The operation was conducted because the Zionist regime had crossed Iran's red line and it was unacceptable, Bagheri said. «The Zionist regime's act to target Iran's consulate in Damascus and to martyr the Iranian legal advisors who were present in that country upon the invitation of the Syrian government was crossing red lines that all countries except two or three supporters of the Zionist regime condemned,» he added. The senior general further said the Israeli offensive had to be responded to, and the

Operation against Israel more successful than expected: IRGC chief

Tehran, IRNA – Commander of Iran's Islamic Revolution Guards Corps (IRGC) says the operation carried out by the force against the Israeli regime was more successful than expected. Major General Hossein Salami said on Sunday that the IRGC had received reports showing that part of the weapons fired by the force toward the Israeli-occupied territories had directly hit their targets. «Our information on all of the hits is not complete yet but on that part of the hits that we have accurate, documented and field-related reports show that this operation has been carried out with a success that exceeded the expectation," said Salami. He said that the IRGC was capable of carrying out a large operation against Israel but it opted for a more restricted and limited one to hit Israeli resources that had been used for an airstrike on an Iranian consulate in Syria earlier this month which killed senior Iranian military commanders. The IRGC commander advised the Israeli regime to regret its past actions and take a lesson from Iran's attacks, adding that any reaction from Israel to Iran's recent attacks would be met with a much stronger response. Salami said Iran has entered a new phase in its confrontation with Israel, adding that the country will respond from its own soil to any attack by Israel on Iranian interests, assets, notable people and citizens in any part of the world. The IRGC commander said that the battle was somewhat unknown and ambiguous, adding that it opened up a new chapter of confrontation to Iran. The enemy's air and missile defense systems, including anti-ballistic and cruise missile defenses, and air defenses that are anti-drone or anti-manned aircraft were deployed in abundance in the small piece of land of the Zionist regime, ranging from the Iron Dome air defense system that deals with short-range projectiles to David's Sling system and Arrow system and even the contributions by the US to the Israeli regime in recent days in the field of air defense, he said.

With the support of the United States, a multi-layered defense of the Zionist regime had been formed from Iraqi airspace to Jordan and even parts of Syria and occupied Palestine, he added. Various aircraft, including the F-15, F-16 and F-35, which are highly advanced, Gulfstream aircraft, and refuelers that helped the enemy warbirds' continuous flight, had created a dense and multilayered air defense from the moment the birds entered Iraqi airspace to mid-Jordan, Salami noted. The regime itself protected from the western Jordan to objectives in the depth of the occupied Palestine, he further noted. Also, the anti-aircraft and missile defense accompanied by the most advanced systems was in front of us, and it was difficult to pass through this very complex, multi-layered, and advanced system, he said. It was very complicated to pass the space and hit them on the ground exactly with extremely high precision, Salami added. Moreover, the integrated capabilities of the United States and the Zionist regime in the field of electronic warfare could have decisive effects on the tools used on the battlefield, he noted. Therefore, this operation required ingenuity in tactical design, with innovative and smart designs, unknown to the enemy and the use of tools capable of neutralizing the enemy in the field of electronic warfare or acting in a way that makes the enemy's systems ineffective, he stated. The order and sequence of this operation were carried out in a way that cannot be said now, as dozens of cruise and ballistic missiles were able to break through the deep layers of the seemingly reassuring air defense of the Zionists and the coalition between the United States and France and to influence the Zionist regime, Salami said.
